is that "the Convention had no control or authority in matter."

What caused this departure from the course of proceed prescribed by the resolution does not clearly appear, a delegation did not resend the resolution, the Conficion did not reverse it. I do not understand it my associates considered it a mullity; ceruly they could not have so considered it when it is passed. I have not sufficient evidence that they anged their minds within ten minutes, or that they re changed them yet. That the resolution was not a lity, but an authoritative act binding upon every memor of the delegation until dely reconsidered, I believed in and believe still.

I submit, therefore, that my reason for attending the rit at its opening was not only sufficient, but imperace, and if I had not yielded to it I should have incurred repreach of my clients and the consure of all right taking men; that before I left the Convention I did not yall that could have been done, but all that was nessary to make the vote of New York certain against proposed amendments of the constitution, and that could have been done, but all that was nessary to make the vote of New York as it was order was owing, not to any act or omission of mine, but the efforts of the minerity of the delegation, or some them, to prevent an expression of the opinion of the jority, and to the failure of my associates of the mality to execute, in my absence, what had been resolved in I was present.

It is certainly with regret that I write this note. My ference was for a statement in which we all could it, but my associates refused to enter intogany joint relevant the finite proposition. Though the importance he vote has been greatly magnified, and the result, in opinion, would not have been different if vote of New York had been counted, as believe zone States not voting would, if no sary, have voted in the affirmative; and if it had not therwise, I think the action of the Convention of no importance whatever. Yet, I should wish this te, of which we are so proud, always to appe

To this one of the Commissiors, Mr. Corning I think it was, objected, saying the vote of New York was to be given as her Comsioners who were present should decide, and that Convention had no control or authority in the user. Some conversation was then had between the missioners who favored and those who opposed the ding proposition, which I did not hear with sufficient incinces to understand, and in a minute or two ternor King announced that the vote of New York of divided. NEWS FROM THE STATE CAPITAL.

The Assembly Committee on Cities and Villages had under consideration this afternoon the bill to give the appointment of the Street Commissioner to the Mayor and Comptroller, without the confirmation of the Alder mea. Several persons appeared before them for and against the bill, and it appears that the advocates of the Aldermen descended into mean personalities—evidence of a weakness of their cause. I was not aware that Mr. Hardy had become an advocate of the "Ring," nor did his friends here suppose that he could descend so low as he did as one of the members of the committee this afternoon. It was enough for his reputation to bear in one day to defend the unscrupulous, disgractful, rotten combination of the Common Council, without insulting those that appeared there with his personalities in regard to people's private business and misfortunes, which had no bearing upon the question before them.

NEW YORK LEGISLATURE.

To better prevent unlawful marriages and incest. To enable the Supervisors of New York to purchase

Mr. J. McLeon Musurer offered a resolution to empower a committee, comisting of the Senators from the Metropolitan district, to send for persons and papers in reference to the action of the Metropolitan Police Superintendent in sending detectives to the Southern States.

On motion of Mr. Williams, the resolution was laid on the table by 19 to 11. On motion of Mr. Williams, the resolution was laid of the table by 19 to 11.

Mr. Murray then moved to declare the Metropolitan Po-lice Commissioners in contempt for not replying to the questions of the Senate. Laid on the table by 18 to 10.

questions of the Senate. Laid on the table by 18 to 10.

Amending the general Highway Labor laws.

By Mr. Mrarny.—To amend the laws relating to public instruction, and to provide for the more thorough supervision and inspection of the common schools.

The bill to incorporate the Bellevue Hospital Medical College, New York, was passed.

The bill to regulate freight on milk on the Harlem Railroad was taken up in the Committee of the Whole.

Mr. Hammosd moved to report progress on the bill.

Mr. Rossmison denounced the attempt to delay action on the bill at this late period of the session. It had already been delayed, he remarked, too long.

Mr. Ketchun also opposed the motion, as designed to kill the bill.

The motion was lost.

Mr. Kerchen also opposed the motion, as designed to kill the bill.

The motion was lost.

Mr. Hammond then moved to strike out the enacting clause, speaking generally against the bill, and denouncing the farmers as a selfish class, who are not content with the benefit the road had been to them in bringing them, practically, within five miles of market; but they Mr. Kerchen argued in favor of the bill, showing that would yet ask this reduction on a road utterly worthless, so far as its stock was concerned.

the milk freight was three hundred per cent above the ordinary charge for other farm products, and defending the farmers from the charge of selfishness.

Mr. Spinota spoke against the bill.

Mr. Rosserson spoke at some length, strongly in support of the bill. The majority of the committee had reported at once in favor of the bill, and then stultified themselves by reporting sgainst it. He desied that the Harlem Railroad charter was a sacred institution not to be altered, as some imagined. This measure was one demanded by the interests of all classes of consumers as well as farmers. He attacked the management of the road, and declared that they should guard against frauds, and reduce the high salaries of its officers, and endeavor by these means to make the road pay instead of grinding exorbitant profits out of farmers.

Before Mr. Robertson concluded his argument, the hour for adjournment arrived, and the Senate adjourned till to morrow.

in the Court of Appeals and the Supreme Court; to amend the act for the preservation of moose, wild deer, birds and fish, and to amend the Revised Statutes relative to trial by jury, were passed.

The bill giving the consent of the State to the purchase by the United States of land in the city of New York for a Post Office site came up for a third reading.

Mr. Can't moved to recommit the bill, with instructions to strike out the enacting clause. He believed that the bill gave a privilege to the United States to purchase the site, which was contrary to the interests and wishes of nine-tenths of the citizens of New York.

Messrs. Bransan and Cozans proposed a motion to recommit, the latter taking ground that while he opposed the location in Nassau street, this was a general bill enabling the United States to buy any site they released the location in Nassau street, this was a general bill canabling the United States to buy any site they pleased, and therefore he favored its passage.

The motion to recommit was lost, and the bill passed by ayes 100, noes 4.

The bill to appropriate $7,000 a year for five years to the People's College came up for final passage.

Mr. H. Sarrii moved to recommit, with instructions to strike out the enacting clause. He advocated the motion can the ground that the bill sought to take money from the common schools of the State and donate it to a private college. If the school library money was not wisely expended, it should go to the common school fund, and not be diverted into an illegitimate channel.

Mr. Pirars spoke against the motion, and it was lost by 35 to 65.

Mr. Sarii moved to limit the appropriation to two years.

Ar. Figure spoke against the motion, and it was lost by 33 to 65.

Mr. Shirls moved to limit the appropriation to two years.

Mr. Rick spoke in favor of the amendment, and in general in opposition to the bill, which takes rags from poor children's backs and sells them to adors the rich.

The amendment was adopted.

Mr. Rick then made several motions to amend, with the object to forbid the appropriation being taken from any common school or library, all of which were closed, and the bill parsed by 46 to 63.

Mr. Rick raised the point of order that the bill was a three-fifths bill.

The Straksk decided that it was a majority-bill, requiring three-fifths of a quorum.

Mr. Rick moved to refer the bill to the Committee on Two-thirds and Three-fifths bills. Carried, and the bill was so referred.

Mr. Ferry then called from the table the Albany and Susquehana Rallroad bill.

Mr. Rousseon withdrew his amendment submitting the tax to the people, and substituted an amendment providing that the State should borrow the money, and that at the rick election the question whether it should be donated to the road should be submitted to the people. He did this to satisfy those who believed the former amendment unconstitutional.

A warm debate ensued, Mesers. Figury and Augulanus speaking for the bill, and Mr. Rousseon against it.

The bill continued to be debated warmly, when Mr. Internors made a speech in its favor, after which the previous question was moved, amidst great excitement. The House refused to order the previous question. The motion for the previous question having been lost, he debate was resumed.

Mr. Kernan spoke at some length against the bill and in favor of the amendment offered by Mr. Robinson, taking the ground that it was proper to submit the question of tax to the people, and that while the original bill was an evasion of the spirit of the constitution, the amendment of the to the proper of the submitted of that instrument.

A spirited discussion followed between Mesers. Robinson and ment was a conformity with the spirit and letter of that instrument.

A spirited discussion followed between Mesars. Robinson and Dwight sgainst the bill, and the Speaker, Burr, Enedict, Ferry and S. E. Smith in support of the bill.

At three o'clock Mr. Franus moved the previous question, which was ordered.

The amoudment by Mr. Robinson was lost—ayes 54, may 61. The bill was then read a third time, and the vote taken amidst much excitement. The bill was lost by ayes 61, nays 55.

Mr. Frant had changed his vote to the negative for the purpose of moving a reconsideration of the vote, and to lay that motion on the table. Carried—63 to 52. So the bill lays og the table, subject to being taken up whenever four more votes can be secured.

The House then took a recess.

EVENING SESSION.

The bill was then read a third time and lost—ayes 52, hays 42.

The Republican General Committee elected the following officers this evening for the ensuing year—President, Birden H. Mills; First Vice President, Chas. D. Rathbone; Second Vice President, H. S. Hulbert; Third Vice President, Fred. Klasr; Treasurer, Wm. H. Haskell; Secretaries, J. Owen Moore and M. Bozley.

Mr. Cozass moved to reconsider the vote, and lay that motion on the table. Carried.

A local bill to divide the school district of No. 2 of Yonkers, which has created much controversy, came up for a third reading, and on motion of Mr. McDesayorr, after a long debate, was recommitted, which virtually kills the bill.

The Slaver Cora.

ESCAPE OF CAPTAIN LATEAM—STATEMENT OF THE UNIT D STATES MARSHAL, CAPTAIN RYNDERS.

UNIT: D STATES MARSHAL, CAPTAIN RYNDERS. TO THE EDITOR OF THE REMAID.

An article appeared in a morning journal of this city, on Monday last, under the caption of "Rynders and Roosevelt," commenting upon the escape of Captain Latham, o' the bark Cora. I should not think of noticing the slanders and palpable falsehoods contained in the article, did I not deem it a duty to give the plain statement of facts connected with the case. The first gross misstatement worthy of notice is this: I quote the language of the slanderous article:—

worthy of notice is this: I quote the language of the slanderous article:

Not many months ago, it will be remembered that a New York slaver named the Cora was captured out the coast of Africa, with a cargo of nearly seven hundred slaves on board. This vessel had been selved as a slaver betore her departure from New York; but her captain and nominal owner, one Latham, alias Ruiz, a notorious and desperate slave trader who had been previously arrested for a similar offence, managed to convince the United States Marshal that the vessel was about starting on a legitimate voyage, and the Marshal, being doubtless satisfied, permitted her to proceed on her voyage.

Now, so much of this statement as refers to me is unqualifiedly and totally false, and the writer who penned it must have known it to be so. Its falsity will be proven by a reference to the recordiof the Court. The bark Cora was arrested by my orders, while on her way to sea. I employed falsity will be proven by a reference to the records of the Court. The bark Cora was arrested by my orders, while on her way to sea. I employed a steamboat upon my own responsibility, which came alengside of the bark whilst the latter was under way. She was brought back to this city and dotained in my custody until discharged by an orde of the Court, which I, as Marshal, was bound to obey How infamous, then, is the charge that I allowed her t proceed to sea, "and that the captain satisfied me of the legitimacy of the voyage," and other mean and contamptible inferences of a like malicious nature. The bark, together with her cargo, were appraised and surctice given, which were approved by the District Judge, and I was ordered by the Court to discharge her from my custody. Another falsehood, equally malicious, relates to the escape of the first mate of the bark, who, it was alleged at the time, escaped through one of the cabin windows and swam ashore amid floating to ean dagainst an adverse tide, which story I am charged in the article alluded to with having put in circulation, and the inference is, that I had charge of the case were that the bark Cora was in charge of a prize crew and an officer of a United States vessel of war, and neither the bark nor the mate who escaped were at the time in my custody. I leave a candid public to judge of the motives which induced the publication of such wholesale falsehoois, having not a particle of truth to rest upon. The mate had to been in my custody be fore his secape, and doubtless had he escaped on the coast of Africa i should have been charged with connivance in the matter. As regards the recent escape of Capt. Latham, I will simply say that while in my custody he was at no time permitted to leave the Edridge street jail, except when attending the examinations before the Commissioner, although applications I ad seen frequently made to me to permit him to be renoved from the prison to the hospital, or to the Kings county jail, on the plea of sickness. These repeated appr assist in in arresting and imprisoning and shall hamm, if he should attempt to resist or escape, and that the Resorder refused to discharge him, and said Latham was sont back to prison.

George W. Clackner being duly aworn, deposes and say that he is an othere in the United States Marshal's office, and knows the foregoing statement to be true.

GEO. W. CLACKNER.

Sworn to before me, this 19th 439 of March, 1841. G. A. VALENTINE, Commissioner of Deeds.

I would here state that I have arrested and detaine more slavers than any of my predecessors, and not on has escaped or been sudered to depart without legal authority. Newspaper writers have facilities for assailing public men. Replies to such attacks can only be made through the courtesy of the editors, and must therefore necessarily be brief. I am thus provented from noticing and cessarily be brief. I am thus prevented from noticing and exposing many charges of a like character, which have from time to time been made. The avidity with which the abolition press of this city seizes upon any falsehood to vent their malice qualisat me, and the fact that not withstanding their unserrupulousness, they have never made a specific charge against my official honesty or integrity.

made a specific charge against my omeiat monesy of integrity.

It is at once gratifying to me as a national man, and must be a sufficient answer to the above, which has been so unsparingly lavished upon me.

I hold my office only until the President can select my successor from the crowd of hungry applicants, whose highest recommendations must be that they have assisted in bringing about the present calamitous state of national affairs. Meantime, I can laugh at the malice of the big and little villains of the abolition press—satisfied that a proper public opinion will ultimately correct the evils which they have brought apon the country.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

ISAIAH RYNDERS.
